Ahmedabad, WforW Foundation

< Mansee is a transdisciplinary learner of built environment that includes architecture, urban design, planning, management, and governance of large-scale development. Her engagement of nearly three decades through entrepreneurship, research, education has built her philosophical interests around waterscapes, sustainability, liveability, and gender on which she also does public speaking and mentorship. She holds her PhD from Erasmus University Rotterdam, MPhil from University of Cambridge, and Masters from CEPT University Ahmedabad. She has received several global scholarships with fellowships including Commonwealth-UK, Nuffic-NL, Research Institute for Humanity and Nature-JP, Fulbright-Nehru Professional and Academic Excellence-USA, besides being mentored by Nobel Laureate Prof Elinor Ostrom at The Ostroms Workshop in Bloomington Indiana University and selected by the Swedish Embassy India and the Swedish Institute to participate in the Nobel Prize Teacher Summit 2022. She has deep concerns on the apathy of water resources in India and believes that water conversations are crucial to move towards water conservation and management. >
